

HOUSEHOLD CORNER

Every year Johnson goes up North on a fishing trip. This year he started as usual, but when he returned he found that his wife had been so unfaithful to him that he had to leave her. He was so angry that he wrote a note to his wife as follows:

Dear Mary: Please don't come. I forgot them.

"Now, boy," said Johnson, as he handed the note, "run your best, and I'll be home."

"The boy returned with a huge bundle," gave you a quarter. The train leaves in twenty minutes. The messenger rushed out to the street while Johnson repaired to the buffet to pass the time. Fifteen minutes later the messenger had returned and handed Johnson a huge bundle.

"What in the world is in here?" gasped the astonished fisherman.

"The spoons," said the boy. "Here is the answer."

He handed over a slip of paper, and Johnson opened it. This is how it ran:

Dear Tom: You don't see what kind of spoons you wanted, but to make sure I sent some of each kind. You will find in this package, soup spoons, dessert spoons, and kitchen spoons. Out of all please select the kind you desire and return them. MARY.

Johnson dropped the bundle to the floor and fell back in a seat.

August Twilight.

When August twilight falls there comes a breeze From out the nowhere, speeding to the trees On soft, caressing wings; the orchard trees Stir lightly, as though effing hands upon The leaves were tapping, whispering, caressing.

A half-dressed robin querulously calls, And for refreshing rain a tree-toad frets, When August twilight falls.

The heat that seemed to parch all things by day Is routed by the skirmishes of dusk. Your nostrils catch from fields of wind-tune, A fragrance having all the tang of musk.

You sit upon your porch and softly croon Some melody that memory recalls. And right the strings the day put out of tune.

When August twilight falls— When Partell gleams in Housekeeper.

SOUP. A woman novelist says blond women are the most economical wives from the viewpoint of the husband's millinery bill. "For," she declares, "a blonde can wear a poor hat without much trouble, but if a brunette attempts to wear anything but the best black hat the result will be disastrous. A brunette can wear only the strongest blacks. A pure white blonde is the only type that can properly wear white."

MR. CARLE AND MR. STARK CAME TO TOWN LAST NIGHT

IMPRESSIONS OF DIRECTOR FERDINAND STARK, NEW CHIEF OF THE TYROLEAN ORCHESTRA.

The annual blending of the "regular" and the summer season of amusement is now on. Last night found open every theater in town save the Century which will begin its autumn campaign next Sunday, and the Garrick which will open next Monday.

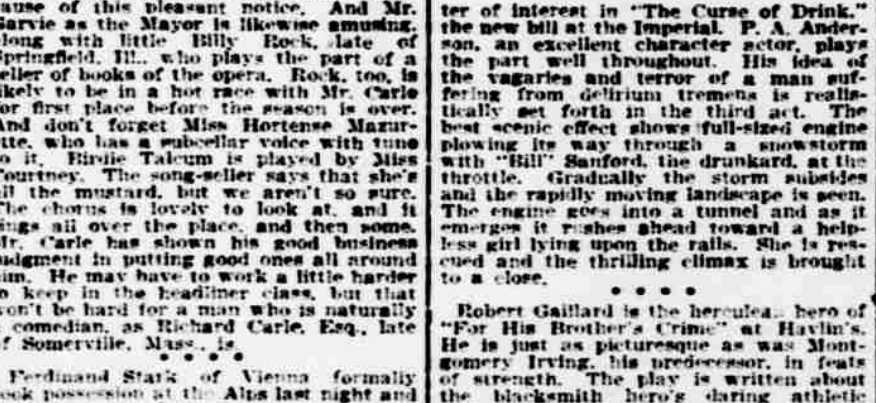

Mr. Carle opened the Olympic season with "The Mayor of Tokio," a comic opera of his own devising. The Grand Opera-house resumed business with "The Sultan of Sulu," and the Crawford reopened under the name of the Gayety. Every garden and summer theater in St. Louis had prosperous business last night, in the face of numerous downtown attractions. Mr. Stark, the new director, and Mrs. Van Studdford will be two strong reasons for large crowds at the Tyrolean Alps.

"La Belle Marie," with Ethel Foster in the lead role, is the attraction at West End Theater.

Fear of a nervous collapse that would prevent her from making a regular season has prompted Miss Helen Lackaye, sister of the late John Lackaye, to quit Macdowell's stock company for a rest of several weeks.

After a performance of "La Tosca" at the Suburban Garden last Thursday, Miss Lackaye suffered nervous prostration, and since been a victim of sleeplessness. The task of learning long parts plays unfamiliar to her has been so difficult, Miss Lackaye says, that she has suffered physically under the strain.

Miss Lackaye attracted notice as the youngest woman who ever attempted the part of Tosca. Her work in "La Tosca" has been creditable, she has achieved smoothness in her role, she says, only by the most laborious of methods.

Barbara's plays, and the others that have constituted Macdowell's repertoire at Suburban Garden, Miss Lackaye regards as altogether unfitted to her talents, which, she says, is her specialty for classic comedy.

Miss Lackaye has been in St. Louis since May 21. Her first engagement here was at West End Theater. She had been with Mr. Macdowell's organization but four weeks, playing in that time the "four female parts" in the "Beguine" and "La Tosca." She was to have played "La Tosca" and "The Doll's House" and "La Tosca" and "The Doll's House" and "La Tosca" and "The Doll's House."

After a few days in St. Louis Miss Lackaye is returning to New York and expects to take a place in a company that will tour the country in a new comedy this season.

Miss Lackaye is a witty and sprightly woman, 23 years old. Despite her relationship to William Lackaye and many opportunities, she has had but three years' experience on the stage. Her appearance "La Tosca" was due to her desire to broaden her experience.

PRINTERS RAISE STRIKE ASSESSMENT PER CENT.

Union Men in Chicago Issue Request to National Board to Intervene.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

The printers to-day entered in earnest into the open-shop fight with their employers. One of the largest meetings in the history of Chicago Typographical Union, No. 16, was held.

More than 1,200 men were in attendance, nearly half the membership of the local union. The men who walked out of five Typographic shops on Saturday, when non-union men were put to work in their place, officially were declared on strike. Three other important moves also were made.

As an indication of its financial strength the union raised the strike assessment from 2 per cent of the wages of the individual member to 10 per cent.

Action which ultimately may be effective in a dozen cities of the Middle West was taken.

It was decided in the meeting to request the National Executive Board of the union to turn to ask the locals in the cities which belong to the United Typographic Union to strike as soon as an indication of success is shown by the employers.

This may precipitate strikes in Cincinnati, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Kansas City, James M. Lynch, international president, is expected in Chicago in a day or two.

STRAY SHOT HITS NEGRESS.

Woman Wounded in Quarrel Between Four Negroes.

In a quarrel between four negroes over a can of beer at Broadway and Holly avenue, shortly after Saturday midnight, Mrs. Mary Ann Williams, living at No. 124 Perry street, was struck by a stray bullet fired from the revolver of one of the negroes, a negro living at No. 104 Carr street.

The wound, which was in the right arm, was not serious, and when taken to a hospital after the accident, Mrs. Williams was pronounced not serious. The police arrested Woodward, Arthur Jones, George Brown and Roy Atkinson, all negroes, and they will be sent to the Second District Police Court this morning, charged with disturbing the peace.

LEG BROKEN IN RUNAWAY.

Horse Driven by Samuel E. Hurley Frightened at Newsboy.

Samuel E. Hurley, 21 years old, residing at No. 2414 Clark street, is in the City Hospital with a broken leg, resulting from a runaway in King's highway early yesterday morning.

Hurley, who drives a milk wagon for the St. Louis Dairy Company, was delivering milk on Wayne avenue near King's highway, when the horse became frightened at a newsboy who ran in front of the wagon, and started to run. The wagon overturned, with Hurley partly under the vehicle and its load of milk. He was dragged for some distance, and when taken to the hospital, he was pronounced seriously injured. The police are looking for the owner of the horse.

It was thought best to bring her to St. Louis, and the trip was made in quick time. Mrs. Cowdery accompanied his wife home yesterday.

COAL OPERATORS TO MEET.

General Conference of Bituminous Producers in Chicago.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27.—A general meeting of all of the bituminous coal operators from across the country would be held in Chicago, November 2, to discuss what attitude the operators of the vast array of mines should take toward the next interstate conference.

This announcement, followed by the further one that no mine owner with has just been reached between the miners and operators of what is known as discredited No. 12, including Tennessee and Kentucky, and which becomes effective next month at the same rate of pay as last year, has excited much speculation in the other bituminous districts.
